

A background image showing a person's hands and arms working at a desk. The person is wearing a blue shirt and a watch. There is a laptop, papers, and a pen on the desk. The image is slightly blurred and has a blue tint.

Profacts – Data Analyst

AN IMPACTFUL CHALLENGE AS DATA ANALYST!

Based on qualitative and quantitative market research, big data, predictive modelling and innovative research methods, Profacts reveals factors for success and provides companies with relevant insights to successfully implement their strategy.

As a Data Analyst you will work in a dynamic research environment. You will be part of the Data Team. This team is responsible for the design and modelling of sound statistical methods and data visualization for our research projects. You statistically monitor the quality of data processing and analysis for a wide range of research projects. You contribute to strong data visualisation stories for our clients.

WHO ARE YOU?

- You have a bachelor's or master's degree which gives you a profound knowledge of basic statistics
- You have a passion for data
- You know and understand basic statistics (average, median, frequencies, significant differences...) and know how to interpret them
- You can fluently read and interpret tables and graphs
- You have experience with data visualisation
- You have experience in programming languages, preferably R, and willing to further learn scripting and basic programming
- Knowledge of Power BI and/or SPSS is a plus
- You are bilingual Dutch/English (written + oral). Knowledge of French is a plus
- You have a growth mindset, are willing to continuously learn and work on new solutions
- You are interested in tech evolutions and innovations
- You put the customer first and are solution-oriented
- You are a team player, with integrity, empathy and a positive attitude
- You are communicative and flexible

WE OFFER YOU

- A challenging position, with plenty of room for personal development and growth opportunities
- A nice workplace with great colleagues and an eye for well-being!
- A competitive salary package with extra-legal benefits
- An introduction to various sectors and customers
- Sufficient variation and 0% chance of boredom

- Work in an inspiring environment where team spirit makes the difference

<https://www.profacts.be/>